

Plea For Peace By Cooperation

(Special to the Bonanza.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 26.—Edward A. Filene, president of William Filene's Sons company, of Boston, in an address made this morning at the first annual national assemblage of the League to Enforce Peace, urged the United States to become the Good Samaritan to the rest of the world. Mr. Filene said: "If, at the end of this war we fail to do our full share toward helping to secure more lasting peace we shall prove recreant to a great duty and a great opportunity—probably the greatest opportunity that has ever come or will come to us as a people."

"This war has emphasized the fact that the United States has become a world power," Mr. Filene said. "It has compelled America suddenly to think in terms of world civilization. Carefully sheltered from the recurrent storm and stress of European politics by our geographical location and our traditional policy of isolation, we have as a nation, grown both powerful and rich, but the war has shaken down about our ears the House of Isolation. We have learned that isolation from world affairs is henceforth impossible and that co-operation in world affairs is imperative. But we are groping for a program. The bigness of world demands makes hesitant a nation accustomed to national demands only."

But international problems are fundamentally the same as individual problems, except they are bigger. To find a program for relations between nations, we need but to apply the principles of enlightened relations between men.

"I am convinced that the United States is due for some business reaction, even though the rivalry in armaments were made necessary, but if the expenses of rivalry in armaments could be materially decreased, the reaction might be kept within such bounds that we might reasonably meet it. So the business prosperity of America demands that we do not 'pass by on the other side,' but that we take a constructively helpful attitude in helping the world make war less probable and peace more lasting."

"There is not a right thinking man in America who would not be willing to make sacrifices if he thought thereby he could make more lasting peace of the world. But the average man is at a loss for a concrete program. If the average American could become convinced as to what is the next practical and possible step forward in the substitution of law for war, there would be no question about his support of the proposal. The best practical thinking of the world, as well as the accumulated experience of history, indicates that the only method by which peace may be made more secure is by substituting law for war among nations just as we have substituted law for war among individuals."

PRIZES FOR RAISING GOATS IN GERMANY

FAMINE IN COWS LEADS GOVERNMENT TO ENCOURAGE A NEW INDUSTRY

(By Associated Press.)
BERLIN, May 26.—In anticipation of a probable shortage of milk next winter, the minister of agriculture already is taking steps looking to the rearing during the coming summer of as many milk goats as possible. The agriculture chambers and organizations all over Prussia are being urged to get into touch with goat breeding associations everywhere with the object of influencing individuals in the right direction.

Premiums for raising goats will in all probability be offered, goat markets in the cities at which goats are sold to butchers will not be held as

RENO REAL ESTATE ON THE MARKET

Attention is called to the announcement of the sale of Reno city lots within eight blocks of the post office on terms that cannot be duplicated anywhere in the country. There is no discounting the fact that Reno has a bright future and that investments in realty at present prices will yield a grand return to fortunate buyers.

Information may be had from Mr. E. M. Turner at the Mizpah hotel. Usual and arrangements will be made whereby special pastures will be available for the animals. The public will be urged to demand goat's milk as little as possible so that the summer's "crop" of kids may be so large as possible.

LARGE GERMAN WINE HARVEST

CROP UNUSUALLY GOOD BOTH AS REGARDS QUANTITY AND QUALITY

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, May 26.—The preharvest predictions of an unusually big yield of wine in Germany have been more than borne out by results. The official report just issued gives a production of 737,905 hectoliters of must in 1915, the greatest production of any year since the introduction (in 1902) of the present wine law. In those thirteen years the production sank as low as 218,264 hectoliters in 1913, and the famous year of 1911 brought but 537,197 hectoliters of must.

The quality also was good. Of the white wines, 41 per cent were ranked as "very good," 52 per cent as "good" and seven per cent as "medium." Only 28,972 liters of the total consisted of red wines. Most of the white wines came from the Moselle, Saar and Ruwer districts, which contributed almost three-fourths of the total. About 95,000 hectoliters came from the Rhine vineyards.

The prices obtained were slightly below those of certain other years, but the total still reached 44,390,000 marks, the greatest on record, exceeding even 1911. In 1914 the total was only 11,680,000 marks.

The wine market, however, continues good.

Pass your cup again

THE cook has followed the directions in the vacuum-sealed tins—you wonder what's happened to your coffee! Good? Better than good—real coffee!

Fine coffee such as Schilling's Best needs only one favor: please make it right.

The result is worth while—and economical. Not that the price by the pound is low, but a pound of Schilling's Best makes more cups of smooth, rich coffee. You can easily prove this.

A great part of this economy is due to even grinding and immediate packing in vacuum-sealed tins.

Schilling's Best is sold through grocers only.
